Dr. Helper plans to address the types of factors that go into the formulation of diagnosis, causation, and prognosis in terms of commonly encountered spinal injury conditions. This will include his assessment of diagnostic imaging studies as well as responses to diagnostic injections

Dr. Helper is a specialist in Interventional Spine Pain Management. He completed his subspecialty fellowship at the Penn Spine Center at the University of Pennsylvania. He is also a fellow of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, having graduated from the Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation residency program out of UBC. He obtained a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Manitoba, followed by his doctorate of Medicine.

As a specialist in both Interventional Spine Medicine and Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation, he has the ability to assess, treat, and/or guide patients down any road of care that is necessary. Whether patients require open surgery, minimally invasive surgical procedures, spinal injections, physical therapy, alternative treatments (regenerative medicine), or oral medications, he will be able to direct them based on the latest medical literature.

Dr. Helper has practiced within the private healthcare system in BC, and is now in the public system, having knowledge in both.
